True Wisdom and the Foolishness of Man

by Mary Jo Nutting

I am writing this in the midst of our fall university tour – thinking much about wisdom and foolishness. The atheists, skeptics and humanists who come to our meetings often scoff and mock at the idea of creation and an all-powerful, all-knowing Creator God. They think it is utter foolishness to trust in what they see as an out-dated, ancient, middle-eastern book. Instead, they put their faith in “science” – and in the “gods” of time, chance, and natural processes. Somehow it seems more “scientific” to them to believe that “Nothing” made everything from nothing!

Of course, the noted Stephen Hawking, in his recent book, The Grand Design, ends up claiming that this “nothing” is really gravity. So “Gravity” becomes the “god” that creates everything. But this simply begs the question, since gravity is just a force that requires “something” to work upon. As John Lennox points out in his book, God and Stephen Hawking: Whose Design Is It Anyway? “What all this goes to show is that nonsense remains nonsense, even when talked by world-famous scientists.”

When really pressed, even the famous atheist, Richard Dawkins, admitted that perhaps life on earth came through the process of panspermia (being “seeded” here by “aliens” from space). This has become a very popular argument among university students, but it too begs the question – or pushes it further out in space. Where did these “aliens” come from, if there is no Creator God outside of space and time? Did they just “pop” into existence?

The ironic thing is that these students and professors, even while claiming to be “scientific,” are so willing to jump to all kinds of fanciful “solutions” and materialistic fairy tales for the problem of the existence of the universe and life. Of course, when we point this out to them, their usual comeback is, “Then where did God come from?” They cannot seem to grasp the idea that God is eternal, all-powerful, all-knowing, and outside of space and time. They continue to propose arguments which must ultimately point to eternal matter and/or energy – or the idea that everything came from nothing by nothing.

According to Romans 1, they are without excuse. God has put the knowledge of himself in every human heart, and evidence of His character and nature in the physical world. When people reject the knowledge He has given and refuse to honor Him as God or give thanks, they “...became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, And changed the glory of the uncorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things.” (Sounds a whole lot like the idea of evolution, doesn’t it?)

True wisdom comes as we humble ourselves before God and accept what He has to say. “The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction.” (Prov. 1:7) “Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this world? Hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world? For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.” (I Cor. 1:20-21)

So as we and the other AOI speakers go to churches, schools, and universities here in the States and around the world, we continue to share the truth of Creation and the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Though it seems to be “foolishness” to some – and they mock and scoff – to others, it is the power of God unto salvation (I Cor. 1:18), and we are grateful to be able to be messengers of His truth. AOI

Chromosome 2 – Proof of Ape-to-Human Evolution? by Dave Nutting

While Mary Jo and I were speaking at the University of Minnesota, someone asked how we explain that Chromosome 2 in the human genome appears to be the fused product of 2 chromosomes which are separate in the chimpanzee genome. This supposedly explains why chimps have 48 chromosomes while humans have only 46. It also supposedly substantiates common ancestry between humans and chimps.

The evidence as presented by various articles and sites looks convincing, however, it is misleading. For a different interpretation of this data, see the technical articles written by Dr. Jerry Bergman and Dr. Jeffrey Tompkins in the Journal of Creation 25(2) August 2011, "The chromosome 2 fusion model of human evolution – Part 1: re-evaluating the evidence and Part 2: re-analysis of the genomic data."

These articles show that more refined and detailed analyses of Chromosome 2 actually contradict the evolutionary conclusions that are frequently presented. In a nutshell, Bergman and Tompkins' research shows that the so-called "fusion markers" are too ambiguous to infer a fusion event at this site. They also report that the region containing the "fusion site" is "a distinct motif that is represented throughout the human genome with no orthologous [indicator of common descent] counter-part in the chimpanzee genome on either Chromosome 2A and 2B."

It is also noteworthy that other studies have found that chromosomes do occasionally fuse. However, when human chromosomes fuse, the result is still human. It is the same with chimps. A new creature does not suddenly appear. They are still chimps or humans. If there was any fusion of chromosomes, it would be human DNA, not chimp DNA.

So what can we conclude about the claims that Chromosome 2 provides good evidence for human evolution?

As Bergman and Tompkins show, the actual data does not support the idea that chimps and humans evolved from a common ancestor. The Biblical record stands – humans are distinct from the rest of creation. AOI

Dragons - Legends & Lore of Dinosaurs

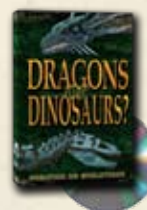

Earlier this year (January issue) we told you about a wonderful new DVD called Dinosaurs or Dragons. Now, Master Books has a tremendous book that would make a great companion book to that excellent DVD. If you want a perfect gift to give to children (or adults!), this is it. This book has amazing graphics and many fun windows to open which reveal exciting legends of knights slaying dragons. Were these dragons actually a reality and were they what we now call dinosaurs? You be the judge as you devour the information and fascinating insights presented in an interactive way and with vivid illustrations.

This popular book will explore dragon legends in nearly every culture, from China to Australia, India to Europe, and Persia to the kingdoms of the fiercest Norse warriors. Some have been written by eyewitnesses including Job in the Bible, Alexander the Great, and Marco Polo. Other ancient people have made drawings on cave walls, pottery, tile floors, and ancient seals which depict dragons that closely resemble modern drawings of dinosaurs and flying pterosaurs. $18.00. Order the Dinosaur or Dragon DVD also for $20.00. AOI

Director's Column by Dave & Mary Jo Nutting

It hardly seems possible that we are coming into the "home-stretch" of another year.

It's been a year of many challenges and opportunities. God has opened many doors for our speakers to teach both children and adults, here in the States and internationally. We are grateful for those who have hosted seminars and opened their homes in hospitality – and we are blessed that God has allowed us to see some good fruit along the way.

Finances and busyness have continued to be big challenges, but despite the need to make some cuts, the Lord has sustained us and provided for all our real needs. We're grateful for His provision through His people. We are also very thankful for safety, health, and strength to "keep on keeping on."

The need is still very great and the fields are white unto harvest. Please pray with us that God will supply workers and finances, that He will continue to open doors for ministry and that there would be much fruit for eternity as we continue to share the good news of creation and the Gospel.
